The Impossible Duel.

The duel which was expected to take place lately between M. Villele and the Vicomte de Chabannes has ended in a explosion—not of gunpowder but of laughter.

These two gentlemen met at a Cafe one evening—got into a trifling dispute—warmed—quarrelled—and some hard words were interchanged. M. Chabannes, unfortunately does not possess the most unimpeachable character in the world in the point of courage, and M. Villele thought himself quite safe in sending a friend to him next morning, with a formal challenge. To M. Villele's great surprise the challange was accepted, and a gentleman named by the Vicomte as his second.

The friends of the two parties met, arranged the preliminaries, and M. Villele's friend returned to him to report progress.

"Well!" said he, as he entered the room where the principal sat looking somewhat disconsolate. "Well! all is arranged—you meet this afternoon."

"Ah! indeed!"

"At three o'clock."

"Very good!" again interrupted M. Villele, with an air of desperate resignation

"In the wood of Vincennes."

"Be it so!"

"At twenty paces."

Each additional particular of the forthcoming encounter was a new shock to the unfortunate man; but a cheering idea seemed suddenly to enter his mind, and with more self possession and confidence he now replied:—

"Twenty paces—eh? Well! let them have it so if they will; but for my own part I should have liked as well fifteen, or even ten paces."

"I mentioned fifteen paces at first," answered his friend, "but the Vicomte's second insisted upon twenty."

"Ah! you yielded this point to them?"

"I did."

"Well, I shall yield no more."

"There will be no occation; all is arranged."

"We shall see; I am the injured party—am I not?"

"It is to be supposed so, as you are the challenger."

"Then, of course, I have the choice of weapons."

"But Monsieur, I have already told you that this was all settled."

"No matter! I have the choice of weapons—and I choose the sword!"

"What—the sword! Have you not often said that you would rather fire a pistol ten times, than draw a sword once?"

"Did I ever say so in particular reference to this affair?"

"No, but——."

"There's no but in the case. I have been insulted—I am the challenger—I have the choice of weapons—and I take the sword."

"Since that is your determination, M. Villele, I must wait again upon the Vicomte de Chabannes' friend."

"Why so?"

"To make new arrangements, of course."

"What need of that? Did you not settle that we were to fight at twenty paces?"

"Certainly!"

"Then I will not disclaim the concession you have made in my name; I am ready to fight at twenty paces!"

"Come now, Villele, that's reasonable again."

"Though I must repeat that I should have preferred fifteen paces, or even ten."

After a moment's pause his friend resumed:

"Have you good pistols!"

"No!" replied M. Villele—what to do?

"How! what to do? a pretty question—why to fight, to be sure!"

"But I'm not going to fight with pistols, I tell you."

"There, now, we're at cross purposes again. Did you not say this moment that you accepted the twenty paces?"

"Yes! I accepted the twenty paces, but I do not accept the pistols. Thunder and lightning!" ejaculated M. Villele, as he gained confidence in the stregth of his position: "I am not at the command of the Vicomte de Chabannes, to do just as he or his second pleases. I have made one concession already and I shall not retract: twenty paces they asked, and twenty paces I have given them. To that I now adhere; at twenty paces we shall fight—not an inch, more or less. But do not imagine that I am going to yield tamely every one of my rights in this affair, because I have made two. Twenty paces be it—but, understand me well with the sword."

All argument was vain. M. Villele remained unalterably obstinate in his resolution, or, as he said, 'firmly maintained his rights."

It is scarcely necessary to add that the duel never took place.

DUNCAN K. McRAE, ESQ.—We are pleased to see announced among the list of pardons the name of this brilliant and gifted son of the old North State. His numerous friends and admirers will be delighted to know that he has been restored to the privileges of citizenship.—Charlotte Times.

WAR IN SOUTH AMERICA.

Further details have been received respecting the war in South America.—The Paraguayans were actively pushing forward, while their opponents, the allied forces, remained motionless, but concentrated, at Concordia, waiting the attack. The Brazilian fleet on the Parana river had commenced a retrograde movement, fearing that the Paraguayans would construct batteries below, so as to gain command of the river. The magnitude which this struggle is assuming may be estimated from the fact that at the date of our latest advices there were 113,000 men under arms, of whom 56,000 were Paraguayans and 57,000 allies. Three American vessels were injured during the late gale off Montevideo, the bark Edith Ross losing three sailors.

Senor Arroyo, Maximillian's Consul in New York, has forwarded for publication, apropos of the projected Juarez loan, a proclamation, the gist of which is that the imperial government of Mexico repudiate President Juarez and all his deeds, and of course will not hold themselves responsible for his contracts.

What I See, Hear and Think as I go Northward.

ON THE START Oct., 4th, '65.

FRIEND STEWART:

I am on the start for the North, the representative of the press of this section and the correspondent for the Banner! It is my duty to select a nom de plume. During the late political campaign, in which I took so active a part for the Bayard of Rowan, his adversary Dr. Jones, and his friends showered upon me the following complimentary names. "Talleyrand," "Fosco," "Maclinville," "Napoleon," "Stonewall," "Masternicle," "Carlylse," &c. I am very thankful and would adopt one of these names but for the fact that my good friends, my honored, trusted and faithful friends, Messrs Brunner, Turner, Jones, Long, Kennedy, Mitchell, Davis, Smith, and many others, have given me a name which I shall adopt—i. e.

THE PRINCE.

Letter From Gen. Lee.

The Petersburg Index publishes the following extract from a private letter of Gen. Lee. It is good counsel:

"It should be the object of all to avoid controversy, to allay passion, give free scope to reason and every kindly feeling. By doing this, and encouraging our citizens to engage in the duties of life with all their heart and mind, with a determination not to be turned aside by thoughts of the past, or fears of the future, our country will not only be restored in material prosperity, but will be advanced in science, in virtue, and in religion.

Wishing you every success,
I am most truly yours.
R. E. LEE."

The Utica Telegraph states that a few months ago Dr. Horton, of that city, lost two of his three children. Last week the doctor himself died. On the following day the remaining child, a bright girl of ten, did not feel well, and her mother gave her, as she supposed, a dose of geranium, but mistook for it yellow jassmine, which is a fatal poison when given in such a dose. The mother was unconscious of the mistake she had committed, until the daughter suddenly exclaimed, "Oh, ma, I can't breathe," and sank down and died. The father and daughter were both buried together, and a stricken one bowed alone over the grave, who was six months ago a happy wife and mother of three children.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

SECOND DAY.

October 5, 1865.

The Convention was called to order at 10 o'clock by the President, and the day's proceedings were opened by prayer by the Rev. C. F. Deems D. D., of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The minutes of yesterday were read, corrected and approved.

The following delegates, who were absent yesterday, appeared in their seats, presented their credentials and were qualified viz:

Hon. George Howard, Edgecombe and Wilson; Rufus L. Patterson, Caldwell; W. S. Hanrahan, Pitt; Jno. A. McDonald, Chatham; R. S. Ward, Rockingham; R. Swan, Cleaveland; T. L. Kennedy, Wayne; G. W. Dickey, Cherokee and Thos. J. Jarvis, Currituck.

Mr. Mebane from the committee on rules, reported twenty nine rules for the government of the Convention, which were adopted, and on motion 150 copies were ordered to be printed for the use of the Convention.

Mr. Clark of Craven, introduced the following resolution.

Resolved, That the President of the Convention be empowered to admit reporters, not exceeding five in number, and to assign them at his discretion suitable place in the hall

The resolution under the rules of the Convention lies over until to-morrow.

Mr. Settle gave notice that he would, when it came up for consideration, move to amend, so as to leave the number to the discretion of the President.

Mr. Winston called up his resolution, introduced yesterday, but which at his own instance, was laid over until to-day. The resolution is as follows:

Resolved, That a committee of nine be appointed whose duty it shall be to report the subject matters proper for the action of the Convention, and the number of committees necessary for the proper disposition of the same.

The resolution was adopted. Mr. Winston desired that the Chair would depart from the usual parliamentary custom and appoint some other member Chairman of the committee, as he was under the impression, when he introduced the resolution, that the committee would have the power to elect its Chairman. He regarded it the most important committee to be raised.

The President appointed the following members to compose the committee, viz: B. F. Moore, Wake; P. H. Winston, Franklin; Wm. Eaton, jr., Warren; S. F. Phillips, Orange; M. E. Manly, Craven; W. P. Bynum, Lincoln; W. A. Wright, New Hanover; O. H. Dockery, Richmond; and D. D. Ferebee, Camden.

At 12 o'clock, M., the hour as reported by the committee to wait on the Governor, at which his Excellency would send in his message to the Convention. The message was received through his private secretary, Mr. Lewis Hanks.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, N. C.
Raleigh, October 31, 1865.

Gentlemen of the Convention:

I do not deem it my duty, under the circumstances, to address you a formal and elaborate message in relation to public affairs. Your duties are too plain to require suggestions from me, and I entertain no doubt those duties will be promptly and faithfully performed.

North Carolina attempted in May, 1861, to separate herself from the Federal Union. This attempt involved her, with other slaveholding States, in a protracted and disastrous war, the result of which was a vast expenditure of blood and treasure on her part, and the practical abolition of domestic slavery. She entered the rebellion a slaveholding State, and she emerged from it a non slaveholding State. In other respects, so far as her existence as a State and her rights as a State are concerned, she has undergone no change. The President of the United States wisely determined that her existence as a State should not be extinguished, but that under that clause of the Federal Constitution which "guarantees to every State in the Union a republican form of government," her people, in Convention assembled, might so alter and amend their Constitution, and adopt such measures as would restore the State to her Constitutional relations to the Federal government, and thus secure once more to the people thereof the inestimable benefits and blessings of the Union.

Allow me to congratulate you, gentlemen, upon the favorable circumstances which surround you, while engaged in this great work of restoring the State to her former and natural position. It is my firm belief that the policy of the President in this respect, which is as broad, as liberal, and as just as the Constitution itself, will be approved by the great body of the people of the United States; and that the period is not distant, if we are true to ourselves, and properly regardful of the reasonable expectations of our friends in other States, when our Senators and Representatives will resume their seats in Congress and when our State will enjoy, in common with the other States, the protection of just laws under the Constitution of our fathers.—In the touching language of your most worthy presiding officer, "We are going home. Let painful recollections upon our late separation, and pleasant memories of early union, quicken our footsteps towards the old mansion, that we may grasp hard again the hand of Friendship which stands at the door; and sheltered by the old homestead, which was built upon a rock, and has weathered the storm, enjoy together the long bright future which awaits us.

I take it for granted, gentlemen, that you will insert in the Constitution a provision forever abolishing slavery or involuntary servitude in North Carolina; and that you will submit the Constitution when altered and amended, to the people of the State at the ballot box for ratification or rejection. I do not doubt that the Constitution, thus altered and amended, will be ratified by an immense majority of the people.

I send herewith the Report of Jonathan Worth, Esq., Public Treasurer, setting forth the State debt, the condition of the Sinking Fund, and also a general view of the State finances both at home and abroad. Also, Reports from the Banks and Railroad Companies, showing their condition; and reports from the Superintendent of the Insane Asylum and the Principal of the Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind, containing statements of the condition of these institutions. I also send herewith a Report from the Public Treasurer in relation to the State property; to which, with the other Reports referred to, I invite your careful attention.

It will afford me pleasure, gentlemen, to furnish you with any information in my possession which you may desire; and I beg you to be assured that I will be ready at all times to co operate with you in such measures as may be deemed essential to promote harmony among our people, and to restore the State, at the earliest practicable period, to its constitutional relations to the Federal government.

I have the honor to be,
with much respect,
your ob't servant,
W. W. HOLDEN.
Provisional Governer.

The report of Treasurer Worth was then read.

On motion of Mr. Caldwell of Guilford, 600 copies of the message and accompanying documents, were ordered to be printed for the use of the Convention.

Mr. Logan, of Rutherford, introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That until otherwise ordered, this Convention shall hold daily sessions (Sundays excepted) meeting at 10 a. m., and adjourning at 3 p. m. The resolution lies over under the rules until to-morrow.

Mr. King, of Lenoir, introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That the President of this Convention be authorized to procure a national flag to be raised over the Capitol during the deliberations of the Convention.

By Mr. Conigland, of Halifax:

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to communicate to this Convention, information as to the specie value at the time when issued, of the bonds and treasury notes, issued by the State, in aid of the rebellion against the government of the United States.

On motion of Mr. Settle, the Convention adjourned until 11 o'clock to-morrow.

When a man is always sneering at, and saying derogatory things of women, it is a sure sign that he has always associated with the most degraded of the sex.

"Beware," said Lavater, "of him who hates the laugh of a child." "I love God and little children," was the simple yet sublime sentiment of Richter.

NEVER BE HAUGHTY.—A hummingbird met a butterfly; and being pleased with the beauty of its person and the glory of its wings, made offer of perpetual friendship.

"I cannot think of it," was the reply, "as you once spurned me and called me a drowling dolt."

"Impossible," exclaimed the humming-bird, "I have always entertained the highest respect for such beautiful creatures as yourself."

"Perhaps you do now," said the other, "but when you insulted me I was a caterpillar. So let me give you a piece of advice—never insult the humble, as they may some day become your superiors."

If you expect to cut a figure, make a sensation, or do anything of that sort, you must keep a stiff upper lip and a firm foot. It is the only way to carry the day on this little planet of ours—well, it is.

Blushing is said to be a sign that something of the angel is left in woman, beautiful to the eye, and bespeaking the inward purity of the heart; when a woman ceases to blush, she has lost her greatest charm.

When the Athenian General, Siphicrates, the son of a poor shoe-maker, was reproached by Hermodius with his low birth, he replied, "I would rather be the first than the last of my family."—The great emperor Napoleon uttered the same sentiment when he discovered that his inteded father in-law, the emperor of Austria, was searching the annals of Italy, to obtain some proof that the Bonapartes were of illustrious origin; "Pshaw," said Napoleon, "he wastes his time; I am the first noble of my race, and my patent of nobility is my sword and the love of the French people."

The Convention of South Carolina has appointed a committee to draft memorials to be addressed by the Convention to the President of the United States for the pardon and release of Jefferson Davis, the late President of the Confederate States; for A. G. Magrath and George A. Trenholm, citizens of South Carolina, now prisoners of State.

The potato rot is more widely spread in Ohio this season than ever before. It is also said that the crop is likely to prove an entire failure in portions of Northern Illinois. The tops have been beaten down and killed by the rains, and the tubers are covered with white specks, which develop in the rot.

The cotton crop will be almost an entire failure throughout West Tennessee. The rust is destroying it as fast as it matures. The yield in the western part of the State, where cotton grows the best, will not be over two hundred pounds to the acre.

GENERAL NEWS.

—o—

The South Carolina Convention has refused to allow negroes to form a part of the basis of representation.

The northern mail is received in Charleston by the land route from New York in seven hours.

The Hamburg steamship Allemania, which left Southampton on the 20th ult., arrived at New York on the 1st, with three days later news from Europe.

Fenianism was still the cause of very considerable excitement in public and official circles, both in Irland and England, and the Paris press had commenced a very full and rather sympathizing canvass of the movement, its exciting causes, object and chances of success. Thirty-one persons had been arrested in Dublin, including the men seized in the Irish People office. They were remanded after an examination before the magistrates. Large rewards were offered for the arrest of suspected parties who had fled to England. A man named McCafferty, said to be an ex-officer of the rebel American army, was arrested in Kinsale and held in durance. The luggage of all passengers arriving in Ireland from America was strictly searched. It is alleged that the Irish police have a very large quantity of documentary evidence in their possession. All the country ballad singers of Ireland were in the pay of the Fenians. Liverpool and Manchester were being agitated in favor of Fenianism, and some Manchester delegates had arrived in the former town on "business" connected with the organization.

Judah P. Benjamin, rebel ex-Secretary of State, was about to betake himself to the English bar. A Liverpool paper gives to him a puff preliminary on the ground of eloquence and legal attainments.

Cholera was making alarming progress in France and the people of Toudou were fleeing from that city on account of the plague.

In England the "rinderpest" continued its ravages, and on the continent had attacked the poultry with the most fatal effect.

The upward tendency of United States securities in Europe continued. Five-twenties were quoted in the London money market, on the 20th ult., at 68¾ a 68⅞

A few days since, Miss Mary Goss, daughter of Major John W. Goss, of Albemarle county Va., was killed by being thrown from her horse.

An elderly gentleman, travelling in a stage coach, was amused by the constant fire of words kept up between two ladies. One of them at last kindly inquired if their conversation did not make his headache, when he answered, with a great deal of naivete, "No, ma'ma, I have been married twenty-eight years."

A telegram received by the President on the 20, from Gen. Weitzel, now commanding in Texas, states that the notorious "Duke" Gwin and Ex-Gov. Clark, of Missouri, have crossed the Rio Grande, surrendered themselves to our forces and are now supplicating pardon for their manifold sins.

There are eight thousand negroes in Alexandria, Virginia.

Two English counterfeiters named Coverton, were arrested in New York last week. They had been in the business nine years.

Shoddy is reported in full fig in Paris, wearing diamonds, smoking cigars, and spending no end of money.

Over elven hundred head of Government cattle were sold to the highest bidders, for each, in Alexandria, on Thursday, at an average price of about six cents per pound, live weight. Five hundred of those sold will be taken to Philadelphia. Mr. Richard Carter of Virginia bought three hundred head.

The Vedette, a Colorado paper, says that two men who were hanged near Gibson's Ferry, en route to Montana, a few weeks ago, for having counterfeit gold dust in their possession, are now believed to be wholly innocent.

PROVIDENCE, October 1.—The Rev. Dr. Francis Wayland who was for more than twenty-eight years President of the University, was prostrated by a paralytic stroke on Tuesday last, and died Saturday afternoon, in the sixty-fourth year of his age.

WASHINGTON, October 1.—It is understood that after the trial of Captain Wirz is ended and all the facts connected with the Andersonville prison ascertained, there will be an investigation of the Salisbury, and other prisons of the South in which Union prisoners were confined and maltreated.

The United States Court of Claims has commenced its October session.

A play called the "Death of Mr. Lincoln," has been forbidden in the Mexican theatres.

A young Irish girl (Anne Lorking,) sues a lawyer in New York, named King, for $100,000, the proceeds of lottery prizes drawn by her when acting as a nurse in Cuba, and which she deposited in his hands.

William T. Vitty, a policeman in New York, accidentally shot and killed himself on Tuesday last, while drawing his revolver from his clothes.

The body of William M. Gray, a New York merchant, was found drowned in the dock at New York on the 26th instant.

The Grand Jury of New York has indicted David Smith and Tunis Smith, owners of the steamboat Arrow, for manslaughter. They have been arraigned, pleaded not guilty, and admitted to bail in five thousand dollars each.

Walter Gregory, of Van Burensville, Orange county, New York, was called out of bed last Sunday night, by some unknown persons, who demanded his money, and upon his replying that he "had none," was shot and killed, three balls piercing his body.

Dr. C. G. M. Griffiths, late surgeon of the United States hospital at Chester, Pennsylvania, was accidentally killed on Monday night, while returning from West Virginia, where he had been upon business. The accident occurred in attempting to jump from a car near his residence, between Wilmington and Philadelphia.

The steamship Kangaroo, which arrived at New York last Saturday from Liverpool, landed over one hundred and fifty artisans and factory hands from England and Ireland, who came to seek employment in the great manufacturing centres of the New England States.

The coal miners' strike in the Lackawana valley has come to an end. Through this fortunate occurence some twelve or thirteen thousand tons will be added to the daily coal supply, and the exorbitant prices which have recently prevailed must of course come down.

The Nashville municipal election on Friday resulted in the election of Brown for Mayor by a majority of four hundred and seventy-five over Hunt.

A correspondent writing from Salem on the line of the Virginia and Tennessee railroad says: "This section of the Old Dominion is rapidly assuming a prosperous appearance again; and merchandise, in large quantities, is daily arriving by express to this place from your city. I notice to day two large cars, per Reid's Express, and learn from their agent they were only thirty-six hours on the road. Swift and heavy expressing for a new country I think."

Frederick Orem has been arrested on suspicion of murdering a man named Haley, a few days ago, on the Virginia side of the Long Bridge.

During the Fair that was held recently at Danville, Kentucky a riot occurred between the citizens of that place and some negro soldiers, in which four of the latter and one white person were dangerously wounded. The result was a general clearing out of all the negroes that were present at the Fair.

The Hardford Times says that when Secretary Wells was in that city last week "he did not hositate to express his opinions as decidedly opposed to negro suffrage."
